

SANGAMAMBA ROADS

The community of Sangamamba has two auto roads in their territory. A huge gully has cut into one of these roads making it impassable to automobile traffic. The gully continues up the hillside where it will eventually destroy the remaining road. A few community members have banded together in an attempt to stop the destruction. They filled the chasm with sand bags, but it had a minimal impact.

The community received $2,500 from the Ambassador's Self Help Fund in order to more effectively end the erosion. The community used bamboo cuttings, planted in-between rows of sand bags, to create a firm foundation across the gully. Transportation can now pass through and erosion is limited.
